CONVERSATION • DISCOVERY • ACTION

Global mission is born out of the mission work we each conduct in our local communities. Consequently, it is local mission work that serves as the best preparer for and an indicator of success for mission work performed overseas. But how do we prioritize between the two? Join us in an interactive discussion intended to create a deeper understanding of the interdependence between local and global mission and how best to balance your resources to address institutional priorities.

The specific topics to be explored, as well as the guest faith institutions who will lead each of these discussions, are as follows:

"Living Lovingly and Justly as Servants of Christ by Healing the Sick." - The United Methodist Church

"Keys to Successful Cross-Cultural Partnerships Between the U.S. and Internationally Based Faith Communities." - The Spectrum Church

"Engaging in Meaningful, Curative, Preventive, and Educational Ministries at Home and Around the World." - International Ministries (American Baptist Foreign Mission Society)

"Best Practices for the Sustainability of Community-based Medical Outreach Programs." - Christian Medical College, Vellore

"Proclaiming the Freedom, Healing and Hope Found in Jesus at Times of Natural Disasters." - Seventh-day Adventist Church

Please join us as we together affect change through the ends of the earth!
